

Hospice

How we can start helping.

Hospice services require a physician's referral. While it's never an easy discussion, early referrals are proven to benefit patients who are approaching their end-of-life journey. The earlier we start caring for your loved one, the better quality of life they will have in their remaining time.

Managing the costs.

We accept Medicare and Medicaid and we also bill private insurance directly. Our generous community sometimes provides resources to assist uninsured and under-insured patients.

Community Hospice is a service of Community Home Health & Hospice serving Washington and Oregon families since 1977.

It takes a Community

Give your loved one quality time.

Hospice care brings comfort.

Hospice care gives your loved one the gift of quality time. Time to connect with family and friends. Time to create good memories. Time without pain.

As a local nonprofit healthcare agency, Community Hospice provides compassionate care that allows your loved one to complete their life journey with comfort and dignity.

Expect more.

Your loved one will receive skilled nursing care—including medications and equipment related to their hospice diagnosis—as well as emotional, social and spiritual support. Hospice is a family affair. We will help your family prepare for and support each other through your loved one's terminal illness—as well as continue to care for family members in their grief.

Naturally, your loved one's doctor will be an important member of the Community Hospice team. Our team includes physicians, nurses, medical social workers, spiritual counselors, hospice aides and trained volunteers.

We make everyone feel at home.

Our highly-skilled hospice experts provide care wherever your loved one lives: in their home, assisted living center, adult foster home, nursing home or at our hospice care centers in Vancouver or Longview.

Our care centers provide intense short-term medical attention when your loved one needs frequent monitoring of pain and other symptoms. Or, your loved one can receive respite care if their caregiver needs a short-term break. As hospice specialists, we can care for even the most complex cases.

It takes a Community to bring peace of mind.

Since 1978, we have cared for and comforted terminally-ill individuals and their families.

Based on our long history of skilled, compassionate care, you can rely on us to help your loved one experience the highest quality of life possible.

Our patients are people first.

At Community Hospice, your loved one remains in control of their care. We understand that decisions about end-of-life care are deeply personal. We respect the values and beliefs that every individual holds regarding their life's journey.
